

'Education of Human Affectivity and Sexuality' Project

Institute for Culture and Society, University of Navarra

If your proposal is accepted, you will receive a "work plan" proposal (datelines, authorship, and a list of authors with different disciplines) and a contract signed by everyone who is involved. Once the contract is signed, you will receive a data base with the variables and subjects needed for the proposal and then the co-authors will begin to work.

1. Main Author of the proposal
2. Publications ¹
3. Email (of the Main Author)
4. Telephone (of the Main Author)
5. Names and last names for those who are co-authors
6. Article title
7. Article objectives
8. Material and methods ²

¹ The person responsible for this proposal should have a maximum of five recent publications, appearing as first or last author and preferably with relation to this proposal's topic or with a similar methodology used in this proposal.

² Emphasize on essential samples and specific statistical analysis with a list of dependent and independent variables.

9. Variables that are needed in the data base
10. Description on Tables and/or Figures that are intended to be used ³
11. Scientific journals where articles will be sent ⁴

³ Describing the tables and/or figures that will be used in detail. For example, Table 1 will represent the socio-demographic variables of the two groups that are being compared: girls and boys who have had sexual relationships and those who have not had any.

⁴ List at least 3 scientific journals and their Index Factor.
