

Call for Candidates

1. ICS Project: Emotional Culture and Identity (CEMID)

<https://www.unav.edu/en/web/instituto-cultura-y-sociedad/cultura-emocional-e-identidad>

2. Project description and job objectives

The inclusion of the emotional element in almost every academic field strongly reflects the active presence of emotions in all spheres of human and social life. Against this cultural background, the main aim of CEMID is to diagnose contemporary societies through the lens of the increasing relevance of emotions. Along these lines, the project seeks to appoint an outstanding researcher who may contribute to understand the social dimensions of human-machine interaction in different social settings, as well as the many social challenges encompassed by the future consolidation of the so-called hybrid societies. The recruited researcher will actively contribute to an interdisciplinary team of scholars coming from Sociology, Philosophy, Medicine, Linguistic Pragmatics, Communication Studies and Literature.

3. What do we offer?

Work contract as Research Fellow for one year extendable.

Salary and benefits in accordance with qualifications and experience.

4. Candidate requirements

Candidates are required to:

- 1) hold a PhD in Sociology, with a focus on sociology of work
- 2) show an excellent record of international research and publications.
- 3) Candidates should have a (very) high competency in English. Knowledge of Spanish is not compulsory—but the candidate's competency or willingness to learn this language will be considered an asset.

5. Areas of expertise

Primary: Sociology

Secondary: Human-Machine Interaction, Psychology

6. How to apply

Interested candidates should provide the following documentation:

- A cover letter.
- CV (with complete contact details) Research statement (including methodology, objectives, and expected results) on how the candidate will contribute with his/her expertise on the abovementioned fields (see §5) to already existing CEMID research (max. 3 pages).

Complete contact details (name, title, mail and telephone) for three referees.

All documentation should be submitted via email to CEMID researchers Álvaro Giráldez (agiraldez@unav.es)

Submission deadline: December 15th, 2020
